Challenge: Training inefficiencies and costly travel time

The Problem:

This dock and door installation company struggled with training field technicians. Employees had to travel to the corporate office for safety training — costing time, travel expenses, and lost productivity. With a workforce spread across five states, every session drained resources and delayed operations.

The Solution with ProactEHS:

ProactEHS provided a mobile-first training system. Technicians could complete safety and compliance training directly on their mobile devices, wherever they were working. Managers tracked completions in real-time, ensuring compliance without pulling staff off the job.

The Results:

- $16,000 annual savings by eliminating travel and downtime for training.
- Improved training completion rates across multiple states.
- Technicians stayed in the field, increasing productivity and reducing service delays.
